

Great British Weather – Listening Activity

Brits endure rain _____ days of every year (_____ days a week).

The reporter goes to the _____ District to find out why the weather is amongst the wettest in _____.

The reporter goes to a mountain that is _____ feet high.

He can see the _____ Sea and the _____ Ocean.

The rain in Great Britain came from _____ miles away.

Air collects _____ from the ocean which forms weather _____.

Warm, damp _____ travels thousands of miles across the ocean and it meets the _____.

The air is forced up and _____ down to form _____.

Clouds are created when invisible water _____ in the _____ condenses into tiny _____ which then falls to the Earth as _____.

Rain forms mountain _____ and then _____.

The Ancient Greeks thought there were underground _____.

Every drop of our fresh water comes from the _____.

There are _____ of tons of rain.

It's a _____ cycle.

The _____ of Great Britain experiences most of the rain.

The wettest city in the UK is _____.

The Lake District gets _____ inches of rain a year.

The Lake District is made up of high _____ and deep _____.

In the Lake District, it rains on average _____ days a year.

The highest peak in _____ is called Scafell Pike.

Britain's wettest inhabited place is in _____.

_____ Cottage is probably the wettest house in England.

The worst year of rain the family have ever experienced was the floods in _____.

It rained for about _____ hours.

The rivers broke the flood _____.

On the _____ of November, there was _____ inches of rain in _____ hours.

The emergency services struggled to rescue _____ people.